Workshop Summary:

This interactive and conversational workshop provides a supportive space for participants to explore the terminology and everyday experiences of LGBTIQA+ young people in our society. The content draws from current research and the workshop format flows between presenting, group discussions and breakaway activities. We use a strengths-based learning framework to ensure participants can engage with the content in a safe, productive and judgement-free environment.

After becoming familiar with the language and research surrounding the LGBTIQA+ communities, participants have the opportunity to learn firsthand from the lived experiences of a member of the LGBTIQA+ community, growing their empathy for the unseen, day-to-day experiences of LGBTIQA+ young people.

Through a series of exercises and group discussions, participants will reflect on their ability to support LGBTIQA+ young people before exploring practical ways in which they can become stronger allies.

Our patient and experienced facilitators will encourage participants to make the most of this unique opportunity by asking the questions they may not feel comfortable asking elsewhere throughout the workshop.
